$1.39 BRITISH LAUD WILSON FOR NOTE TO GERMANY

Westminster Gazette Says It Is Chief Event of War and Ranks with Great Papers.

London, May 16.-The Westminster Gazette characterizes the American note to Germany as the greatest event of the war. It says:
"We are aware that it will not help

President Wilson for the citizens of any belligerent nation to hail him as a 'Daniel come to judgment,' but we can ican note to the German government to confine themselves to the case of their own citizens, and to pass by that part which concerns noncombatants of belligerent governments as no concern of theirs. They have not taken this course. They have taken their stand firmly on what may be called the common law of nations, and on this ground challenge in health and spirits. its entirety the new kind of submarine varfare Germany is trying to establish.

"We will not speculate on the sequel or offer untimely advice on what the American government may do if their protest proves ineffectual. That is for them to decide, and they may be relied nterests, and to do it all the more earnand seriously because they have reluctant to involve themselves in the affairs of Europe. But we may say, in the meantime, that we count this note, as from all human and moral points of view, the greatest event of this war, "The forces are now ranged on one side or the other of the legal and moral boundary, and nothing can be as it was before, when the most powerful of neutrals has definitely taken its stand for the great principle affirmed in the American note." The Star says: "The American note is a document which affects the future of the world so to exaggerate its enduring signifiance.
